Miriam Adams' work derives from a deep love of drawing, its rhythms and sinuous lines, its intimacy. Objects are isolated and re-combined conceptually to explore relationships and emotions. The goal is to create a heightened awareness, a quiet balance of movement and stillness. Words and poems are integrated with the visual image in a continuing search to express ideas and memories of experience. The drawings are in graphite and watercolor on paper, an inherently simple and direct technique allowing for a subtle play of line and color. The work has been exhibited mainly in the Northeast, particularly in Vermont, New York, and Boston. The library will receive 25% of any sales.*
