Hi Joe,

I just got your last hydraulic report back today, so FEMA should have everything we need. I'd assume they can put together all of your reports pretty quickly as all they need to do is push it through the queue, then they'll send you a final sheet saying they've written up all of the projects. After that we'll go for a ride around to make sure all of the work is complete and fill out the project completion form and when Montpelier receives that form they can start dispersing funds. Quite the process, right!? Let me know if you have any more questions.

Thanks,

Rachel Beauregard
